RE: GENERAL LETTER 39 – STATEWIDE FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE POLICY – REVISED

PURPOSE

This General Letter is to provide a statewide Family and Medical Leave Policy to ensure consistent application and implementation of the federal and state family and medical leave laws. Therefore, any and all individual agency policies on this topic are hereby deemed obsolete and agencies shall comply with the instructions specified herein.

Appendix A defines the terms that have specific meanings in connection with Family and Medical Leave, including but not limited to the definitions of “child,” “parent,” “spouse,” “next of kin,” “covered servicemember,” and “covered active duty.”

Appendix B describes the procedures employees must follow when applying for and using Family and Medical Leave.

Appendix C contains the forms used to administer Family and Medical leave requests.

SOURCES OF LEAVE ENTITLEMENTS

Legislation passed at both federal and state levels provides eligible employees with job-protected leave for certain family and medical reasons.

The federal Family and Medical Leave Act ("federal FMLA") provides medical leave and family leave, as well as additional leave rights to families of members of the Armed Forces.

The revised agreement between the State of Connecticut and the State Employees Bargaining Agency Coalition, ratified by the General Assembly in July 2017 ("the 2017 SEBAC Agreement") made two significant changes to the family and medical leave entitlements of unionized state employees:

- Connecticut’s family/medical leave act, C.G.S. §31-51kk ("state FMLA") applies to state employees; and
- Permanent state employees are eligible to receive supplemental leave benefits ("SEBAC Supplemental leave").

Pursuant to Item No. 2495-E, these leave entitlements are extended to all Executives, Managers, and Confidential employees of the Executive Branch, and to Legislative and Judicial employees. This item also applies to unclassified employees of the boards of trustees of the constituent units of higher education.

Section 46a-60(a)(7) of the Connecticut General Statutes requires employers to grant its pregnant employees "a reasonable leave of absence for disability resulting from her pregnancy." This "pregnancy disability leave" includes absences associated with pregnancy complications, such as being put on bedrest, as well as the period of time required for the employee to physically recover from the birth of the child.

Finally, section 643 of Public Act 17-2 (June Spec. Sess.) creates an additional leave entitlement for any state employee who donates an organ or bone marrow to a person for transplantation ("organ donor leave" and "bone marrow donor leave").

DESIGNATION OF LEAVE

In all circumstances, it is the employer's right and obligation to designate leave as federal FMLA, state FMLA or SEBAC Supplemental leave.

- If the employee is eligible for one or more of these entitlements and the reason for leave is covered by the law or policy, the employer must designate the leave accordingly.

- If the employer learns that the employee is absent due to a covered reason and the employee is eligible for one or more of the leave entitlements, the employer must designate the leave even if the employee does not make an explicit request.

- The employee does not have the right to refuse the designation as federal FMLA, state FMLA or SEBAC Supplemental leave.

- The federal FMLA gives the employer the option to identify individuals as "key employees" who do not receive job protection during their leave. The State of Connecticut does not utilize this option.

STANDARD FAMILY & MEDICAL LEAVE REASONS

Federal FMLA, state FMLA, and the 2017 SEBAC Agreement allow eligible employees to take "standard" family and medical leave for the following reasons:

- Personal Medical Leave for the employee's own serious health condition:
  - The employee's own illness or injury;
  - The disability period related to the employee's pregnancy and childbirth;
  - The donation of an organ by the employee;
  - The donation of bone marrow by the employee.

- Caregiver Leave to care for the employee's child, spouse or parent in connection with:
  - Their disability period related to pregnancy and childbirth;
  - Their organ or bone marrow donation; or
  - Their other serious health condition.

  NOTE: The state FMLA also allows an employee to take caregiver leave to care for the employee's parent-in-law.

- Bonding Leave:
  - Time off to bond with a newborn child;
  - Time off to process the adoption of a child or bond with a newly adopted child; or
  - Time off to process the placement of a foster child or bond with a newly placed foster child (federal and state FMLA only; not available under SEBAC Supplemental leave.)
MILITARY FAMILY LEAVE REASONS

Federal FMLA and state FMLA allow eligible employees to take military family leave. The 2017 SEBAC Agreement does not create a supplemental leave entitlement for military family reasons.

Military Family leave may be taken for the following reasons:

- Military Caregiver Leave for a current servicemember: For a spouse, son, daughter, parent or next of kin to care for a covered servicemember who has a serious injury or illness while on covered active duty; or

- Military Caregiver Leave for a veteran: For a spouse, son, daughter, parent or next of kin to care for a covered veteran who incurred a serious injury or illness while on covered active duty (federal FMLA only);

- Qualifying Exigency Leave: Because of any qualifying exigency that arises out of or is directly related to the fact that a spouse, son, daughter or parent of the employee is on covered active duty:
  - Short notice deployment;
  - Military events and related activities;
  - Childcare (non-routine care for the child of the individual on covered active duty) and school activities;
  - Parental leave care (non-routine care for the parent of the individual on covered active duty);
  - Financial and legal arrangements;
  - Counseling;
  - Rest and recuperation;
  - Post-deployment activities; and/or
  - Additional activities related to the covered active duty as mutually agreed upon by the employer and employee.

TYPES OF LEAVE AVAILABLE

There are three types of leave:

- Block leave: A continuous absence for a single qualifying reason (i.e., an absence of 3 weeks due to a broken ankle).
- Reduced schedule leave: A leave schedule that changes the employee’s normal work schedule for a period of time by reducing the employee’s usual number of working hours per workweek or hours per day.
- Intermittent leave: Leave taken in separate blocks of time due to a single qualifying reason.

When an employee takes intermittent or reduced schedule leave, the shortest amount of leave that can be taken is 15 minutes.

For intermittent leave or reduced schedule leave associated with an employee’s personal medical leave or caregiver leave, the medical documentation must certify that an intermittent or reduced leave schedule can best accommodate the medical condition requiring the leave.

Reduced schedule leave for bonding is available only with the employer’s consent and only within the parameters established by the employer.
The type of leave an employee may take depends upon the source of the leave entitlement, the reason for leave, and the medical documentation provided:

ELIGIBILITY

Each of the leave entitlements listed above has different criteria for determining eligibility:

To be eligible for federal FMLA, employees must have at least 12 months of total state service (in the aggregate) and have worked at least 1,250 hours in the 12 months immediately preceding the commencement of leave. ("Hours worked" does not include time spent on paid leave – sick, vacation, personal leave, administrative, etc. – or unpaid leave. However, overtime hours and military leave do count toward the 1,250-hour requirement.)

To be eligible for state FMLA under C.G.S. §31-51kk, employees must have at least 12 months of total state service (in the aggregate) and have worked at least 1,000 hours in the 12 months immediately preceding the commencement of leave. ("Hours worked" does not include time spent on paid leave – sick, vacation, personal leave, administrative, etc. – or unpaid leave. However, overtime hours and military leave do count toward the 1,000-hour requirement.)
To be eligible for SEBAC Supplemental leave, one must be a permanent employee with the state as defined in C.G.S. §5-196(19).

For purposes of the pregnancy disability leave under C.G.S. §46a-60(a)(7), an “employee” means any person employed by the state, a political subdivision of the state or an entity that employs three or more people.

All state employees are eligible for organ donor leave and bone marrow donor leave.

Accordingly, a state employee may be eligible under more than one leave entitlement.

AMOUNT OF LEAVE

Each of the leave entitlements listed above provides employees with a different amount of leave.

Federal FMLA
- Standard leave and/or qualifying exigency leave:
  - An eligible employee is entitled to a maximum of 12 weeks of leave in a twelve-month period.

- Military caregiver leave:
  - An eligible employee is entitled to a maximum of 26 weeks of leave during a single 12-month period to care for a covered service member (including a covered veteran) who was injured while on active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces.
    - An employee can take this leave only one time per service member, per injury.
    - During any single 12-month period, the employee's total leave entitlement is limited to a combined total of 26 weeks for all qualifying reasons under standard FMLA and military family leave.

State FMLA
- Standard leave and/or qualifying exigency leave:
  - An eligible employee is entitled to a maximum of sixteen (16) weeks of leave within a two-year period.

- Military caregiver leave:
  - An eligible employee is entitled to a maximum of 26 weeks of leave in a 2-year period.
    - An employee can take this leave only one time per service member, per injury.
    - During any single 24-month period, the employee's total leave entitlement is limited to a combined total of 26 weeks for all qualifying reasons under standard state family/medical leave and military family leave.

SEBAC Supplemental leave
- An eligible employee is entitled to a maximum of twenty-four (24) weeks of leave within a 2-year period, up to four calendar months of which may be used for bonding purposes.

Pregnancy Disability leave
- An employee may take a "reasonable" amount of leave for the disability associated with pregnancy and childbirth.
  - The amount of time that is considered “reasonable” is determined on a case-by-case basis, based upon the employee’s medical condition.
- In general, if the employee has a routine pregnancy and childbirth, with no complications, it is reasonable for an employee to need six (6) weeks of leave following a vaginal delivery or eight (8) weeks of leave following a caesarian section.

Organ Donation leave
- A state employee who donates an organ to a person for organ transplantation shall be entitled to up to fifteen days of paid leave from state employment as a recovery period from such donation.
- Organ Donation leave shall not result in a reduction in pay, the loss of any leave to which the employee is otherwise entitled or a loss of credit for time or service or affect the employee's rights with respect to any other employee benefits provided under federal or state law.

Bone Marrow Donation leave
- A state employee who donates bone marrow to a person for transplantation shall be entitled to up to seven days of paid leave from state employment as a recovery period from such donation.
- Bone Marrow Donation leave shall not result in a reduction in pay, the loss of any leave to which the employee is otherwise entitled or a loss of credit for time or service or affect the employee's rights with respect to any other employee benefits provided under federal or state law.

HOW LEAVE IS TAKEN

How the Leave Period is Determined
The State of Connecticut uses the "Measure Forward" method to determine the leave period (i.e., 12 months or 24 months). Under the "Measure Forward" method, the leave period begins on the first day the employee takes leave under that entitlement.

Each employee may have a different leave period for each of the entitlements, depending upon whether the leaves run concurrently (i.e., at the same time).

When the Leave Starts
Federal FMLA leave, state FMLA leave, and pregnancy disability leave will start on the first day the employee is absent for a covered reason.

- If the employee is eligible for both federal FMLA and state FMLA and the reason for leave qualifies for both statutes, the leave will run concurrently.
- Federal FMLA leave and state FMLA leave each run concurrently with pregnancy disability leave under C.G.S. §46a-60(a)(7) and with leave provided under the state Workers' Compensation absences.
- There are special rules regarding when military caregiver leave runs concurrently with federal FMLA and state family/medical leave. Consult the agency Human Resources Office for more information.

SEBAC Supplemental leave is in addition to leave taken under federal FMLA, state FMLA, pregnancy disability leave and leave provided under the state Workers’ Compensation statutes.
• An employee who is eligible for one or more of these statutory leaves must exhaust the statutory leaves before taking SEBAC Supplemental leave.

• If the leave is for the employee’s own serious health condition, the SEBAC Supplemental leave does not start until the employee exhausts his or her sick leave accruals.
  - If sick time accrues after the start of SEBAC Supplemental leave, the sick leave accrual is available to be used by the employee only after his or her return to work. It cannot be used during the SEBAC Supplemental leave.

Organ donation and bone marrow donation leave are in addition to federal FMLA leave, state FMLA leave, and SEBAC Supplemental leave.

• A state employee who donates an organ or bone marrow must exhaust the organ donation or bone marrow donation leave before taking leave under federal FMLA, state FMLA or SEBAC Supplemental leave.

When the Leave Entitlement Is Shared

If married employees both work for the State of Connecticut and are eligible for federal FMLA and/or state FMLA, they will be required to share the leave entitlement (of 12 or 16 weeks) if the reason for the leave is one of the following:

• To bond with a child, or
• To care for a parent or parent-in-law who has a serious health condition.

When the Employee Can Take Bonding Leave

Federal FMLA and state FMLA permit an eligible employee to take leave to bond with a newborn child, an adopted child or a foster child. SEBAC Supplemental leave is available only to bond with a newborn child or adopted child. It does not cover bonding with a foster child.

• Bonding leave may be taken any time within the 12 month period beginning with the date of birth, the date the child was adopted, or (under federal FMLA or state FMLA) the date of the foster care placement.

• The bonding leave must be completed no later than the end of that 12-month period.

If the employee is eligible for federal FMLA and/or state FMLA and SEBAC Supplemental leave, the start date of the SEBAC Supplemental leave depends upon the employee’s role:

• If the employee gave birth to the child, SEBAC Supplemental leave for bonding begins upon the exhaustion of her federal FMLA and/or state FMLA leave and the exhaustion of her pregnancy disability leave under C.G.S. § 46a-60(a)(7), whichever ends later.

• If the employee is the other parent of a newborn baby or the adoptive parent, SEBAC Supplemental leave for bonding begins upon the exhaustion of federal FMLA and/or state FMLA leave.

If the employee is eligible for only SEBAC Supplemental leave, the start date of the SEBAC Supplemental leave depends upon the employee’s role:

• If the employee gave birth to the child, SEBAC Supplemental leave for bonding begins any time after the exhaustion of her pregnancy disability leave under C.G.S. § 46a-60(a)(7), provided that the bonding leave must be completed no later than the end of the 12-month period beginning with the date of birth or the date the child was adopted.
• If the employee is the other parent of a newborn baby and the adoptive parent, SEBAC Supplemental leave for bonding may be taken any time within the 12-month period beginning with the date of birth or the date the child was adopted. The bonding leave must be completed no later than the end of that 12-month period.

ACCRUAL USAGE

Accrual usage depends upon the following:
• The reason for leave and the employee’s eligibility under the various leave entitlements, and
• The employee’s accrual selection.

If the employee is eligible for federal FMLA, state FMLA leave and/or SEBAC Supplemental leave and the reason for leave is covered by these entitlements but the employee does not have any accruals or does not meet the requirements for the use of the accruals, the employee remains entitled to take unpaid leave.

If the employee is taking personal medical leave (including pregnancy and childbirth):
• The employee is required to use all accrued sick leave unless his or her labor contract states otherwise.

  o EXCEPTION: An employee cannot use sick leave accruals in order to recuperate from an illness or injury which is directly traceable to employment by an employer other than the State of Connecticut with the exception of state employees who receive workers’ compensation benefits in connection with injuries incurred as a result of serving as a volunteer firefighter.

• After the sick leave accruals are exhausted, the employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.

If the employee is taking caregiver leave:
• The employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.
• If the employee is eligible for federal FMLA leave and/or state FMLA leave, the employee may request to use sick leave accruals during the federal FMLA, state FMLA and SEBAC Supplemental leave, but is not required to do so.
• If the employee is not eligible for federal FMLA leave or state FMLA leave, the employee may use his or her “sick family leave” entitlement but is not allowed to use any other sick leave accruals.

If the employee is taking bonding leave:
• The employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.
• If the employee is eligible for federal FMLA leave and/or state FMLA leave, the employee may request to use sick leave accruals during the federal FMLA, state FMLA and SEBAC Supplemental leave, but is not required to do so.
• If the employee is not eligible for federal FMLA leave or state FMLA leave, the employee may use his or her “parental leave” entitlement but is not allowed to use any other sick leave accruals.

If the employee is taking organ donation leave:
• The employee is entitled to 15 days of paid leave.
• If the employee has a medical need for additional leave after the 15 days are exhausted, the employee shall use his or sick leave accruals.
• If additional leave is medically necessary after the sick leave accruals are exhausted, the employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.
If the employee is taking bone marrow donation leave:

- The employee is entitled to 7 days of paid leave.
- If the employee has a medical need for additional leave after the 7 days are exhausted, the employee shall use his or sick leave accruals.
- If additional leave is medically necessary after the sick leave accruals are exhausted, the employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.

If the employee is taking military family (military caregiver or qualifying exigency) leave under federal FMLA and/or state FMLA:

- The employee may request to use accrued vacation, personal leave, and/or compensatory leave but is not required to do so.
- If the employee is taking care of the employee’s spouse, son, daughter or parent, the employee may use his or her “sick family leave” entitlement but is not allowed to use any other sick leave accruals.
- There is no SEBAC Supplemental leave for Military Family leave reasons.

General Rules Regarding the Selection and Use of Accruals:

- Employees must comply with applicable agency policies and/or collective bargaining agreements regarding the selection and use of accruals.

- Barring extenuating circumstances, the choice of accruals must be made before the employee begins the leave.
  - Any changes to accrual designation must be made through the agency Human Resources Office.
  - Accrual changes will be applied prospectively.

- Except as described above regarding use of sick leave accruals for personal medical leave and paid organ donation and bone marrow donation leave, if the employee does not select accruals to be used, the leave will be unpaid.

- The employee may use vacation, personal leave, compensatory time and/or sick leave for caregiver or bonding leave (if eligible) in any order.

- The employee is not required to use all of their vacation, personal leave, compensatory leave and/or sick leave for caregiver or bonding leave (if eligible).

- Use of vacation, personal leave, compensatory leave, and/or sick leave for caregiver or bonding leave (if eligible) does not extend the length of the leave entitlement.

- If the employee chooses not to use all of his or her accruals or if the accruals are exhausted before the leave ends, the remainder of the leave will be unpaid.

- Once the employee has made his or her election of accrual usage, all of the paid time that the employee has elected to use must be spent down completely before the employee goes into unpaid status. The employee is not allowed to intersperse unpaid time with paid time.
ADVANCE NOTICE

Where the employee has advance notice of the need for the leave (i.e., an anticipated birth, adoption or surgery), the request for leave and required documentation form should be submitted at least 30 days in advance, using approximate dates if definite ones are not yet available.

An employee who needs to take organ donor or bone marrow donor leave must provide at least seven days’ advance notice when practicable.

Where there is no forewarning (i.e., major unexpected illness), the request for leave and required documentation should be submitted as soon as the employee becomes aware that he/she is to be absent for a family and medical leave-qualifying reason. Failure to provide the required documentation may result in a disapproval of the leave or a delay in its commencement.

Employees must sign a statement confirming their intent to return to work immediately following the leave. Failure to return to work at the end of the leave period may be treated as a resignation unless an extension of the employee’s absence has been agreed to and approved in writing by the agency.

DOCUMENTATION REQUIRED

The specific documentation required depends on the reason for the leave:

Standard Family & Medical Leave

* Form P-33A-Employee – Medical certificate to be completed when the leave is for the employee’s own illness, including the disability period related to the employee’s pregnancy and childbirth.

* Form P-33B-Caregiver – Medical certificate to be completed when the leave is to care for the employee’s child, spouse, parent or (state FMLA only) parent-in-law with a serious health condition/serious illness.

* The employee may also be required to produce documentation demonstrating the required relationship between the employee and the employee’s family member.

* In the case of the placement of a foster child, the employee must provide a letter from the state confirming the placement date (federal and state FMLA only).

* In the case of adoption, the employee must provide a letter from the adoption agency confirming the date of the adoption.

Military Family Leave

* DOL-WH384 - Certification of Qualifying Exigency for Military Family Leave (federal and state FMLA)

* DOL-WH385 - Certification for Serious Injury or Illness of Current Service member for Military Family Leave (federal and state FMLA)

* DOL-WH385-V – Certification for Serious Injury or Illness of Veteran for Military Caregiver Leave (federal FMLA only)

* The employee may also be required to produce documentation demonstrating the required relationship between the employee and the service member.
BENEFIT CONTINUATION

The use of federal FMLA, state FMLA or SEBAC Supplemental leave will not result in the loss of any employment benefit that accrued prior to the start of an employee’s leave.

During periods of family and medical leave, the employee will continue to receive the same insurance benefits as if the employee is actually working, regardless of whether the leave is paid or unpaid.

The State of Connecticut will continue the employee’s health insurance coverage while the employee is on leave. The State will continue to pay the same portion of the employee’s individual and/or dependent insurance coverage as it did before the employee went on leave. The employee must continue to pay any share of the group health plan premiums that he/she had paid prior to taking leave.

If employee is on unpaid leave, the employee will be billed directly for the portion of the cost that was previously withheld from his or her paycheck for that purpose.

If the employee has state-sponsored group life insurance, the employee will be billed directly for the same amount he or she contributed prior to the leave.

If the employee has dependent health coverage but wishes to change to individual health coverage, the employee must contact his or her agency’s Payroll Unit for forms to cancel dependent coverage as soon as possible.

If the employee does not return to work immediately following the leave for reasons other than a health condition or another good reason beyond his or her control, the agency may charge the employee retroactively for its portion of the cost of the health insurance during the unpaid leave.

In the case of any other deductions being made from the employee’s paycheck (e.g. disability insurance, life insurance, deferred compensation, credit union loans), the employee must deal directly with the appropriate vendor to discuss payment options.

RETURN TO WORK

At the conclusion of family and medical leave, employees are entitled (with limited exceptions) to return to the same position or to an equivalent position with equivalent pay, benefits and working conditions. In the majority of cases, employees will be returned to the position they occupied prior to the leave. If this is not possible, the agency will notify them of their new position prior to their return from leave.

In cases involving the serious health condition of an employee, the agency will require the employee to provide a fitness-for-duty report from his or her medical provider certifying that the employee is able to return to work. This requirement protects the employee, co-workers and the public from the negative consequences that can result when an individual returns to work before being medically ready to do so. Therefore, employees who are notified of the need for a fitness-for-duty certification will not be allowed to return to work without it.

Upon the employee’s return from the leave, the service time the employee accrued up to the beginning of the leave is restored for longevity and seniority purposes. Some bargaining unit contracts also provide for service credit for the time spent on leave.

Employees should consult their union contracts for further information about longevity and seniority.

Consult the Comptroller’s Office for further information about retirement credit.
UNLAWFUL ACTS

It is unlawful for any employer to:

• Interfere with, restrain, or deny the exercise of any right provided under federal or state FMLA;
• Discharge or discriminate against any person for opposing any practice made unlawful by federal or state FMLA or for involvement in any proceeding under or relating to federal or state FMLA.

The U.S. Department of Labor is authorized to investigate and resolve complaints of violations regarding the federal FMLA. The State of Connecticut Department of Labor is authorized to investigate and resolve complaints of violations regarding the state FMLA.

Complaints regarding family & medical leave may be directed to the Human Resources Director/designee in each state agency or to the employee’s union.

MORE INFORMATION

Employees who have additional questions may contact their Human Resources Office. Human Resources Professionals may contact the DAS Statewide Human Resources Consultants assigned to their agency.

APPENDIX A: FAMILY & MEDICAL LEAVE TERMS

It is important to be aware that the definitions of certain words may differ from each other, depending on whether one is referring to state law or federal law, as well as whether the words are used in the context of standard leave or military family leave.

If state statutes or regulations do not specifically define a term, the State of Connecticut adopts the federal definition.

Standard Leave

"Child"
- A biological, adopted or foster child, stepchild, child of a person standing in "locus parentis," or a child of whom a person has legal guardianship or custody; AND
- Who is under age 18 years or is 18 or older and incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability.

"Parent"
A biological, adopted or foster parent, stepparent, person standing in "locus parentis" of a child or a person who has legal guardianship or custody of a child.

"Parent-in-law" means the parent of the employee’s spouse.

"Spouse" means the person to whom your employee is married, including same sex marriages.

"Serious health condition"
- An illness, injury, impairment or physical or mental condition that involves:
  - Inpatient care:
    - Overnight stay in a hospital, hospice, or residential medical care facility, and
    - Includes any period of incapacity or subsequent treatment in connection with or consequent to inpatient care.
  - Incapacity and treatment:
    - A period of incapacity of more than three consecutive full calendar days, and
    - Any subsequent treatment or period of incapacity relating to the same condition, that also involves:
      - Treatment two or more times within 30 days of the first day of incapacity, unless extenuating circumstances exist, or
      - Treatment by a health care provider on at least one occasion which results in a regimen of continuing treatment under the supervision of the health care provider.
    - The first (or only) in-person treatment visit must take place within seven (7) days of the first day of incapacity.
    - "Treatment" means an in-person visit to a health care provider.
  - Incapacity due to pregnancy, including prenatal care;
  - Incapacity due to chronic conditions requiring treatments (e.g., Asthma, diabetes, epilepsy);
  - Incapacity due to permanent long-term conditions (e.g., Alzheimer's, a severe stroke, terminal states of a disease); or
  - Absence to receive multiple treatments for a condition that would likely result in incapacity of more than three days if left untreated (e.g., physical therapy, chemotherapy, dialysis, etc.).

➢ Note: Common cold, flu, earaches, upset stomach, routine dental work, and cosmetic treatments are generally not considered serious illnesses or serious health conditions.
Military Family Leave

"Child"
- A biological, adopted or foster child, stepchild, child of a person standing in “loco parentis,” or a child of whom a person has legal guardianship or custody.
- For purposes of caring for a son or daughter under state and/or federal military caregiver leave, there is no age restriction.

"Covered active duty"
- In the case of a member of a regular component of the Armed Forces: Duty during the deployment of the member with the Armed Forces to a foreign country;
- In the case of a member of a reserve component of the Armed Forces: Duty during the deployment of the member with the Armed Forces to a foreign country under a call or order to active duty under a provision of law referred to in section 101(a)(13)(B) of title 10, United States Code.

"Covered service member," (state military family leave)
- A current member of the United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force or any reserve component thereof, including the Connecticut National Guard performing duty as provided in Title 32 of the United States Code.
- State military family leave does not cover veterans.

"Covered service member" (federal military family leave)
- A current member of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves) who is undergoing treatment, recuperation or therapy, is otherwise in outpatient status, or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list, for a serious injury or illness; or
- A “covered veteran.”

"Covered veteran" (federal military family leave only)
- A veteran who is undergoing treatment, recuperation or therapy for a “serious injury or illness” as defined by the Department of Labor and who was a member of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves) at any time during the period of 5 years preceding the date on which the veteran undergoes that medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy.

“Next of kin”
- The service member’s nearest blood relative, other than the covered service member’s spouse, parent, son or daughter, in the following order of priority:
  o A blood relative who the covered service member has specifically designated in writing as his or her nearest blood relative for purposes of military caregiver leave;
  o Blood relatives who have been granted legal custody of the service member by court decree or statutory provisions,
  o Brothers and sisters,
  o Grandparents,
  o Aunts and uncles, and o First cousins.

"Serious injury or illness" - current member of the Armed Forces
- An injury or illness that was incurred by the member in the line of duty on active duty in the Armed Forces or that existed before the beginning of the member’s active duty and was aggravated by service in the line of duty on active duty in the Armed Forces and that may render the member medically unfit to perform the duties of the member’s office, grade, rank or rating.
“Serious injury or illness” - veteran (federal military family leave only)

- An injury or illness that was incurred or aggravated by the member in the line of duty on active duty in the Armed Forces and that manifested itself before or after the member became a veteran, and
- Is:
  - A continuation of a serious injury or illness that was incurred or aggravated when the covered veteran was a member of the Armed Forces and rendered the service member unable to perform the duties of the service member’s office, grade, rank, or rating; or
  - A physical or mental condition for which the covered veteran has received a VA Service Related Disability Rating (VASRD) of 50 percent or greater and such VASRD rating is based, in whole or in part, on the condition precipitating the need for caregiver leave; or
  - A physical or mental condition that substantially impairs the veteran’s ability to secure or follow a substantially gainful occupation by reason of a disability or disabilities related to military service or would do so absent treatment; or
  - An injury, including a psychological injury, on the basis of which the covered veteran has been enrolled in the Department of Veterans Affairs Program of Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers.
APPENDIX B: HOW TO APPLY FOR FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE

1. What advance notice must I provide?

   When the leave is foreseeable (such as an anticipated birth, adoption or surgery), you must notify your Human Resources Office at least 30 days in advance, using approximate dates if definite ones are not yet available.

   When there is no forewarning (such as a major unexpected illness), you must notify your Human Resources Office as soon as you become aware that you are to be absent for a family and medical leave-qualifying reason.

   If you fail to provide the required notice, your agency may deny your request completely or may delay commencement of the family and medical leave.

2. How do I apply for family and medical leave?

   You may request family and medical leave either orally or in writing.

   In order for your Human Resources Office to process your request, however, you must complete the Form FMLA-HR1, “Employee Request for Leave of Absence.” This form is available from the agency Human Resources Office and from the state government website, ct.gov. The completed form must be returned to your Human Resources Office.

   After receiving your request, your Human Resources Office will provide you with Form FMLA-HR2a, “Notice of Eligibility and Rights and Responsibilities”.

   This form does not constitute an approval of your request; it simply notifies you whether you meet the eligibility requirements under the state and federal laws. At that time, your Human Resources Office will also notify you what documentation you need to provide in order for it to make a determination regarding your leave request.

3. What documentation do I need to submit in support of my request for leave?

   You must provide your Human Resources Office with enough information for it to determine whether federal law, state law, and/or state policy cover the leave requested. Failure to provide the needed documentation may result in a disapproval of the leave or a delay in its commencement. The specific documentation required depends on the reason for the leave:

   Standard Family & Medical Leave

   - Form P-33A-Employee – Medical certificate to be completed when the leave is for your own illness, including the disability portion of maternity leave, and organ or bone marrow donation.

   - Form P-33B-Caregiver – Medical certificate to be completed when you request leave to care for a child, spouse, parent, or parent-in-law (state FMLA only) with a serious health condition/serious illness.

   - You may also be required to produce documentation demonstrating the required relationship between you and your family member.

   - In the case of the placement of a foster child, you must provide a letter from the state confirming the placement date (federal and state FMLA only).
• In the case of adoption, you must provide a letter from the adoption agency confirming the date of the adoption.

Military Family Leave

• DOL-WH384 - Certification of Qualifying Exigency for Military Family Leave (federal and state FMLA)

• DOL-WH385 - Certification for Serious Injury or Illness of Current Service member for Military Family Leave (federal and state FMLA)

• DOL-WH385-V – Certification for Serious Injury or Illness of Veteran for Military Caregiver Leave (federal FMLA only)

• You may also be required to produce documentation demonstrating the required relationship between you and the service member.

4. When do I need to submit this documentation?

You must submit the completed medical certificate or military family documentation to your Human Resources Office no later than fifteen calendar days after receiving the “Notice of Eligibility and Rights and Responsibilities” (Form FMLA-HR2a) or demonstrate that you made diligent good faith efforts to do so.

You must submit the documentation regarding the placement of a foster child or adoption to your Human Resources Office as soon as practicable and, in all cases, before the leave commences.

5. What happens if the medical certificate or military family documentation is incomplete or insufficient?

If the medical certificate or military family documentation is incomplete or insufficient, your Human Resources Office will notify you in writing of the deficiencies and you will have seven calendar days to cure the deficiencies. If it is not possible for you to submit a complete and sufficient medical certificate or military family documentation within the seven calendar days, you must demonstrate that you made diligent good faith efforts to do so. Failure to provide complete and sufficient documentation may lead to the denial of your leave request.

After receiving your completed medical certificate, your Human Resources Office has the right to authenticate or receive clarification regarding the certificate. If the validity of the medical certification is in doubt, your agency can require a second opinion with a health care provider of its choice at its own expense. If the two opinions conflict, the agency may pay for a third opinion. The third opinion will be final and binding.

The rules for military caregiver leave are slightly different. Your Human Resources Office has the right to authenticate or receive clarification but second and third opinions are not permitted if the medical provider is from the Department of Defense ("DOD"), the Department of Veterans’ Affairs or a DOD Tricare authorized provider.

6. How will I know if my agency has approved my leave request?

Your Human Resources Office will send you a Form FMLA-HR2b “Agency Response: Designation Notice,” which serves as an official notice of how your leave has been designated.
7. What do I need to do after my leave has been approved?

You must follow your agency’s standard call-in policies even if you are approved to take family and medical leave.

When you notify your agency that you will be absent, you must specifically state that your absence is connected to your approved family and medical leave. Calling in “sick” without providing more information is not sufficient notice to trigger the employer’s obligation under the family/medical leave act.

In particular, if you have been approved to take leave on an intermittent basis, you must explicitly notify your agency each time that you are absent for a family and medical leave reason.

If you are responsible for entering your own time and attendance coding, your Human Resources Office will provide you with the appropriate CORE-CT codes to use. (Form FMLA-HR2c “CORE CT Coding”).

8. Do I need to notify my agency if I intend to return to work after my leave expires?

Yes. Before you commence your leave, you are required to sign a statement confirming your intent to return to work immediately following the leave. (Form FMLA-HR3 “Intent to Return to Work”). You must sign this form and return it to your Human Resources Office before you commence your leave.

During your leave, you may be required to furnish your agency with periodic reports of your status. Failure to return to work at the end of the leave period may be treated as a resignation unless an extension has been agreed upon and approved in writing by the agency. Regardless of the total length of your leave of absence, the portion of the leave that is covered by federal and/or state leave shall not exceed the benefit provided under federal or state law.

9. Will I be required to provide a fitness-for-duty report?

If your case involves your own serious health condition, your agency may require you to produce a fitness-for-duty report on which the physician has certified that you are able to return to work. This requirement protects you, your co-workers and the public from the negative consequences that can result when an individual returns to work before being medically ready to do so.

If your agency requires you to provide a fitness-for-duty report, it will be indicated on the Form FMLA-HR2b “Agency Response: Designation Notice.” The fitness-for-duty certification must be provided to your Human Resources Office. If you are notified of the need for a fitness-for-duty certification, you will not be allowed to return to work without it.

10. More Information

If you have additional questions, please contact your Human Resource Office.
